Product Description

H90 Copper Pipe ASTM Standard 168mm OD 30mm Thickness Yellow Color Construction Use

Product Description

Common copper tubes can be divided into the following types:

Copper condensing tube, crystallizer copper tube, air conditioning copper tube, all kinds of extruded, drawn (reverse extruded) copper tube, iron copper tube, brass tube, bronze tube, white copper tube, beryllium copper tube, tungsten copper tube, phosphor bronze tube, aluminum bronze tube, tin bronze tube, imported copper tube, etc.

Thin-walled copper pipe, capillary copper pipe, metal copper pipe, special-shaped copper pipe, small copper pipe, pen copper pipe, pen copper pipe, etc.

According TO THE needs of customers, according to the drawing processing and production of square mold copper pipe, rectangular, D type copper pipe, eccentric copper pipe, etc. Among all kinds of pipe fittings, the performance price ratio of copper pipe fittings is second to none. Liquid flow performance in copper pipe is better than other pipes, resistance is small, not easy to cause water flow is not smooth or even blocked; In the same flow of copper pipe and other pipe diameter is small, thin pipe wall, make the water flow pressure is reduced to the minimum, so the copper water supply system can not only use small size of thin-walled copper pipe, save material, but also save a lot of energy consumption. More than 90% of the world's copper can be melted into recycled copper for further use. The recycled copper maintains all the superior properties of the original copper, so that copper can be continuously recycled. Installing copper pipes and fittings in a house is a savings investment. Decades later, when the house is dilapidated and all other materials and equipment are useless, copper pipe fittings will still be useful. It should be particularly pointed out that copper will not produce toxic gases or other harmful substances in the process of regeneration, nor produce other wastes. This kind of "friendly" to the environment is not possessed by other materials
