Product Description

ASTM C5210 Copper Alloy Tube 26.7mm OD 2.87mm Thickness 6m Length Corrosion Resistance For Decoration

Product Description

Brass tubes are alloys of copper and zinc.

Brass tube cutting retail, brass tube cutting can be processed, brass tube a non-ferrous metal tube, is pressed and pulled seamless tube. Copper pipes have strong, corrosion resistant characteristics, and become modern contractors in all residential commercial housing water pipes, heating, cooling pipes installed.

Brass tube characteristics. Brass tube weight is light, good thermal conductivity, low temperature strength. Often used in the manufacture of heat transfer equipment (such as condenser, etc.). It is also used to assemble cryogenic pipelines in oxygen production equipment. Small diameter copper pipe is often used to transport pressure liquids (such as lubrication systems, oil pressure systems, etc.) and used as gauges, etc.

Refrigeration system in the use of copper tube is very wide, connecting pipe, heat exchanger, capillary will use copper tube, but the material of copper tube is also different.
